THE AMERICAN

BOOK TRADE JOURNAL

With which is incorporated the American Literary Gazette and Publishers' Circular

[ESTABLISHED 1852]

F. LEYPOLDT, EDITOR AND PUBLISHER, 13 AND 15 PARK ROW, NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, July 1, 1882.

WHOLE No. 546.

A Great Wrong to a Great Author.

DR. ROBERT YOUNG, the author of the great Analytical Concordance to the Bible, writes in reference to the new unauthorized edition of this work just published in America:

"Will not the American press do me the favor to bring before their readers the reasons why I feel so deeply wronged by the printing of a new edition of my Concordance from the old unauthorized Book Exchange plates? I complain—

"1. Because the plates are so very imperfect. In the specimen pages shown me, notwithstanding the corrections claimed, there were no less than thirty broken letters (Hebrew, Greek and English) in the first two columns I examined, and thirty errata in the first twenty pages I looked at. These plates wrong the public as well as me.

"2. I offered to pay the publishers who had purchased these unauthorized and imperfect plates the price of the plates if they would not publish. This I did because I did not wish so imperfect an edition sold.

"3. I think I can safely claim that my Concordance is no ordinary work, and that I ought to be protected by a sense of manly fairness and justice in the absence of law. There should be no need of law, save among those who are essentially dishonest, in order to secure fair dealing. I repeat my appeal to the Christian public of America:

"Christian friends, I have no wish to enter on the question of an international copyright, for it is not the question of one publisher against another, but of an author who has spent years of labor and thousands of pounds on his work, and who was anxious to sell his work in America at the lowest possible price.

"Christian brethren, may I not hope that you will all—singly and conjointly—lift up your voice and protest against this piracy and spoliation, and show to the Christian churches in Great Britain that you hate 'robbery for a burnt-offering'?"

"I am your servant in the Gospel,

"ROBERT YOUNG.

"EDINBURGH, SCOTLAND."

Dr. JOHN HALL indorsed this appeal as follows:

"Dr. Robert Young's Analytical Concordance is worthy of the lifetime of labor he has spent upon it. I deeply regret that his natural and just expectation of some return from its sale on this side the ocean is not realized; and I hope the sense of justice to a most painstaking author will lead to the choice by many purchasers of the edition which Dr. Young approves—that of Messrs. FUNK & WAGNALLS, with whom Dr. Young co-operates in bringing out here the best edition.

"NEW YORK."

JOHN HALL.

A Trade Journal's Opinion.

In April, 1881, The Bookseller, of Chicago, said: "To pirate this book and deprive its venerable author of the legitimate results of his life labor, is little less than sacrilege. This act cannot be classed among the ordinary crimes of robbery, and it is certain that no man with a spark of upright humanity in his composition could perpetrate such an outrage."

A Comparative Extent of YOUNG'S "Concordance" with that of CRUDEN, showing the difference in the number of references:

	While CRUDEN has	YOUNG has	Difference.
Under A.	4,950	14,576	9,626
" B.	10,348	16,930	5,582
" C.	11,300	20,418	9,118
" D.	12,000	15,670	3,670
" E.	6,463	10,545	4,082
" F.	12,000	16,432	4,432
" G.	8,284	16,800	8,516
" H.	13,340	17,110	3,770
" I. J.	7,036	16,658	9,622
" K.	3,820	6,216	2,396
" L.	9,284	16,600	7,316
" M.	11,250	15,618	4,368
" N.	4,200	6,720	2,520

" P.	11,616	15,460	3,844
Q to Z.	63,149	96,917	34,968

These figures show that while "Cruden" has 193,000 References, "YOUNG" has 310,000, being an increase of 117,000—apart from the advantage of the Analytical arrangement.

Every correct copy of this work has the words "Authorized Edition" printed on its title-page. Price, Cloth, $3.65; Sheep, $4.40.

NOTES IN SEASON.

A. WILLIAMS & Co., Boston, have just published a third edition of Chief-Engineer King's "War-ships and Navies of the World." It has received additions bringing it down to date, and the illustrations have been both increased and improved.

PORTER & COATES have ready, in neat and attractive form, a volume of family prayers compiled by a layman, entitled "Services for the Chapel and the Family." It contains a service for every day in the month with special services, scriptural selections, and the psalter.

ROBERT CLARKE & Co., Cincinnati, will have ready in July "Celebrated American Caverns, especially Mammoth, Wyandot, and Luray," with maps and illustrations, by Horace C. Hovey. An appendix will contain a complete list of the subterranean fauna so far as known.

D. VAN NOSTRAND has nearly ready a "Manual of Blowpipe Analysis, qualitative and quantitative, with a complete system of determinative mineralogy," specially adapted for class use, by H. C. Cornwall. The volume will have 69 woodcuts and one lithographed plate.

LITTLE, BROWN & Co. have issued in pamphlet form, at twenty-five cents each, four interesting and valuable papers, viz.: "La Fayette," by John Bigelow; "Kentucky," by John R. Procter; "Abraham Lincoln," by John G. Nicolay; and "Henry Wadsworth Longfellow," by Thomas Davidson.

JOHN CHURCH & Co. have issued "Murray's Method for the Cabinet Organ," prepared by James R. Murray, a well-known teacher and composer. It consists of practical and progressive lessons, desirable and effective music, and among other novelties contains a preliminary practice without notes.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS have just ready a paper-covered edition of "Hood's Own Whims and Oddities," with 174 illustrations, and the third volume of the series Questions of the Day, with the title "Our Merchant Marine; its rise, progress and decline," by David A. Wells. In the Transatlantic novels they will soon issue "Lady Beauty," by Allan Muir; "At the Eleventh Hour," by Annie Edwardes; and "Abbe Constantine," by Ludovic Halévy.

MOSES KING, Cambridge, Mass., has in preparation a "Hand-book of Boston Harbor." The letterpress will be by Mr. M. F. Sweetzer, so well known for excellent descriptive writing in relation to New England scenery; and the work will be illustrated with a hundred and fifty original drawings by Charles Copeland. These include sketches of the scenery of the islands and the beaches, and of the characters incident to the subject, made from nature and from life.

S. C. GRIGGS & Co. will shortly issue "A System of Mental Philosophy," by Prof. Asa Mahan, of Oberlin College, a concise and admirable treatise based on the thirty years' experience of the author as a teacher of mental science; "A Practical German Grammar," by Prof. W. C. Sawyer, intended to provide the student with the means for learning the essentials for reading and speaking German in the shortest and clearest way; and "The Development of English Literature and Language," by Prof. A. H. Welsh, the result of years of study, tracing both the historical and philological development of the English language in a lucid, instructive, and entertaining manner.

THOMAS WHITTAKER will issue this month "Miss Dewberry's Scholars, and what they did," by Margaret E. Sangster; "The Thomas & Kempis Birthday-Book," containing a brief selection for every day from the "Imitation of Christ," edited by W. E. Waiks; "Getting to be Women," by George Klinge; "A Domestic Heroine," by Mrs. W. J. Hays, author of "The Princess Idleways," illustrated; "The Greatness of Christ," and other sermons, by Dr. Alex. Crummell, with heliotype portrait; and an 18mo edition of the "Charles Dickens Birthday-Book," edited and illustrated by his daughters. In September he will issue "The Edens of Italy," by Dr. Joseph Cross, with eighty illustrations.

HENRY HOLT & Co. will issue this week in the Leisure Hour series a new American novel entitled "Kinley Hollow," by G. H. Hollister, author of a "History of Connecticut," and "Thomas & Becket." They have in preparation a translation by S. L. Fleischmann, of Heinrich Heine's "Romantic School," to which will be added his "Sabbian Mirror," and an introduction to "Don Quixote," "German by Practice," by Prof. W. D. Whitney and L. R. Klemm, which will form the first volume in the new Whitney-Klemm series, and serve as an introductory volume to Professor Whitney's Grammar and Reader. They have also in preparation "Elements of Plane Trigonometry," by Prof. Simon Newcomb.

REES WELSH & Co., Philadelphia, having secured the plates of Walt Whitman's "Leaves of Grass," announce that they will publish a new edition in a few days. They have also in press Walt Whitman's prose works, entitled "Specimen Days and Collects," in one volume 12mo, uniform with the "Leaves of Grass." The contents are divided into three parts; the first part contains reminiscences of his early life, the second part is in the form of a diary, giving his war experiences, etc., and the third part is a collection of essays on political and social subjects, a number of which have been published in the The North American Review and other leading journals, now for the first time collected. A large amount of new matter has been added.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.

In this list, the titles in brevier are direct transcriptions from books actually received, according to the rule of the American Library Association; those in nonpareil are from the best information available, and will be repeated in brevier when the book is received for registry.

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. A colon after initial designates the most usual given name, as: A: Augustus; B: Benjamin; C: Charles; D: David; E: Edward; F: Frederic; G: George; H: Henry; I: Isaac; J: John; L: Louis; N: Nicholas; P: Peter; R: Richard; S: Samuel; T: Thomas; W: William.

Sizes are designated as follows: F. (folio: over 30 centimeters high); Q. (4to: under 30 cm.); O. (8vo: 25 cm.); D. (12mo: 20 cm.); S. (16mo: 17½ cm.); T. (24mo: 15 cm.); TL. (32mo: 12½ cm.); Fe. (48mo: 10 cm.). Sq., obl., nar., designate square, oblong, narrow books of these heights. Where figure instead of letter symbols are used, the record is from publisher's designation, and not measurement.

Imported books are marked with an asterisk; authors' and subscription books, or books published at net prices, with two asterisks; educational books published at "wholesale" prices, with a dagger.

- Cutts, Rev. E. L. Charlemagne. N. Y., E. & J. B. Young, 1882. 16+345 p. map, D. (Home library.) cl., net, $1.05. As the learned author puts it, "Charlemagne stands in the popular view as the representative man of that obscure but very important period in which three elements—the ancient Western civilization, the fresh vigor of the barbarians who overran it and the Church—were being fused into the national life of mediæval Europe." Every phase of the life of that period is familiar to the author, who has in this book contributed an uncommon and most valuable stock of knowledge to the little we already possess, in readily accessible form, of a great turning-point in the world's life.

Contains some hundreds of the choicest extracts of the writings and addresses of Dr. Charles F. Deems, the well-known pastor of the Church of the Strangers, New York. These extracts are printed on the left-hand pages throughout the book. On the right-hand pages are printed the days of the year; two dates to each page, one at the top and one in the middle of the page. The months are opened with appropriate selections from favorite authors, and there are a number of blank pages for an index to names.

- Prof. Douglas, of the British Museum and Professor of Chinese at King's College, London, is thoroughly at home with his subject—an account of Chinese life, customs and government. He brings out with much force the comparatively high standard of early civilization of the Chinese people and the strange inability to advance further, which has kept them so much behind other nations. He pays special attention to the religion, the languages and the literature of the inhabitants, and emphasizes the corruption of their officials and the barbarity of their punishments.

- Kings Co. Genealogical Club collections, v. 1, no. 1: Inscriptions on tombstones in cemetery of Reformed Dutch Church, New Utrecht, L. I. N. Y., E. W. Nash, 1882. 15 p. O. pap., 25 c.
- Kingsley, C. Living truths from the writings of C. Kingsley; selected by E. E. Brown; introduction by W. D. Howells. Bost., D. Lothrop & Co., [1882]. 292 p. D. (Spare minute ser.) cl., $1.
- The same plan is followed as in the preceding volumes of the series. The editor has gone with a careful and judicious hand over the entire range of Kingsley's books, poetry and prose, culling from the universal richness such jewels of thought as in addition to their literary brilliancy may teach a lesson, or quicken religious and moral thought. The brief sketch of the author's life by Mr. Howells, shows the character of the author in a vivid light.
- Lankenau, H. v., and Oelnitz, L. v. D. Russia, past and present; adapted from the German by Henrietta M. Chester. N. Y., E. & J. B. Young & Co., 1882. 8+434 p. map and il. D. cl., net, $1.50.
- The facts and descriptions in this work have been taken mainly from a work published in Leipzig in 1876, Das heutige Russland, compiled from numerous sources by Lankenau and Oelnitz. The translator has supplemented the work with information regarding the very latest events that have occurred in European and Central Asian Russia.

- This new volume of hymns and songs is sent forth to meet a demand which has long been felt for a book which combines hymns suitable for prayer and social meetings, with those which are specially adapted to Sunday-schools.
- Lubbock, Sir J. Ants, bees and wasps: a record of observations on the habits of the social hymenoptera. N. Y., Appleton, 1882. 20+448 p. 5 col. pl. and il. D. (International sci. ser., no. 42.) cl., $2.
- This volume contains the records of various experiments made with ants, bees and wasps during the last ten years, with a view to test their mental condition and powers of sense. The principal point in which Sir John's mode of experiment differs from those of Huber, Forel, McCook, and others, is that he has carefully watched and marked particular insects, and has had their nests under observation for long periods—one of his ant's nests having been under constant inspection ever since 1874. His observations are made principally upon ants, because they show more power and flexibility of mind, and the value of his studies is that they belong to the department of original research.

It is explained in the preface that when the new scheme was drawn up for the Oxford Honor School of Theology in 1879, this book—written in 1853, but for twelve years out of print—was one of those recommended to be studied for the period of mediæval history of which it treats. Though thrown into the form of a narrative, the book is an authentic history—highly romantic—of the conversion of the then very extensive dukedom of Pomerania by Otto, Bishop of Bamberg, in the twelfth century.

This book, compiled by the Steward of the N. Y. Yacht Club, is published with the official sanction and under the patronage of the N. Y. and Eastern Yacht Clubs; contains a complete register of the yacht clubs of the United States and Canada, with list of officers, names of vessels and owners, addresses of secretaries of yacht clubs; also fac-similes, in chromo-lithograph, of club pennants, and, by special permission, the private signals of the New York Yacht Club. This is the only work containing yachting statistics published in this country. It is greatly enlarged over last year's ed., containing the record of about 1900 yachts, and details of forty-one clubs.

Sanborn, F. B. Henry D. Thoreau. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1882. 8+324 p. por. D. (American men of letters) cl., $1.25.

This is the third volume in the series of "American Men of Letters," edited by Charles Dudley Warner. Mr. Sanborn knew Thoreau intimately, and in his book tells the curiously interesting story of his life, describes his uncommon mode of thought, and indicates the deep and wholesome influence his writings have exerted upon English and American literature. Thoreau was b. in Concord, Mass., July 12, 1817, d. 1862; was the author of "A week on the Concord and Merrimack Rivers," "Walden," "The Maine woods," "Cape Cod," etc.

Swinton, W.: Introductory geography in readings and recitations. N. Y. & Chic., Ivison, Blakeman, Taylor & Co., 1882. 4+116 p. il. and maps, sq. O. cl., net, 55 c.

Forms an introduction to the author's "Grammar School geography;" combines reading lessons with recitation lessons, text graded; contains excellent maps and illustrations, and handsomely bound.

Taylor, G: Antinous: a romance of ancient Rome; from the German by Mary J. Safford. N. Y., W. S. Gottsberger, 1882. 6+343 p. S. cl., 90 c.; pap., 50 c.

The beautiful youth who is the subject of this romance was the favorite page of the Roman Emperor Hadrian; after his early death by drowning in the Nile the emperor had him worshipped as a god, erected temples to his memory, had statues and busts made of him, and his handsome face stamped upon coins, etc. The romantic story of his life, and the history of the period are well and graphically told.

Tyndall, J: Essays on the floating matter of the air in relation to putrefaction and infection. N. Y., Appleton, 1882. 18+338 p. D. cl., $1.50.

Essays are entitled: On dust and disease: Optical department of the atmosphere in relation to putrefaction and infection; Further researches on the department and vitality of putrefactive organisms; Fermentation, and its bearings on surgery and medicine; spontaneous generation. "The part of this work which most excites the admiration of the true man of science, and which will go farthest to increase the permanent reputation of its writer, is the record of the long series of observations contained in the memoir on the vitality of putrefactive organisms, first presented to the Royal Society and now republished. It would, indeed, be difficult to quote a better example of the method and the spirit with which a difficult investigation should be pursued, and of the qualities by which success is ultimately attained.—London Spectator."

Vanderbeck, C. C., M.D. Hints for the summer months. Phil., Baxter Publishing Co., 1882. 156 p. D. pap., 50 c.

"If you are seeking theory and long-worded science, cast this little volume one side. If you are anxious to know in the common English tongue some of the usual causes of summer ill-health—how to enjoy the summer's rest, health, and the regaining of physical and mental vigor, and to this end how to eat, drink, bathe, recreate, and how to care for your children—then we challenge your most earnest attention."—Preface.

Wallace, J. W: The reporters, arranged and characterized with incidental remarks; 4th ed., rev. and enl., published under the superintendence of Franklin Fiske Heard. Bost., Soule & Bugbee, 1882. 8+654 p. O. shp. or hf. cf., net, $5.50.

This work originated in an article written by Mr. Wallace for the American Law Magazine, and reprinted in pamphlet form (77 p.), in 1844. A second edition (37+103 p.) was published in 1845. The third edition appeared in 1855, enlarged to 424 p. The author's occupation—as reporter to the Supreme Court—prevented further revision, and the work soon passed out of print and became so scarce that second-hand copies have long commanded a high price, both at auction and at private sale. The assistance of Mr. Heard has now enabled Mr. Wallace to bring out this fourth edition, still further enlarged by valuable additions to the text and notes, and grown to 660 p.

Webster, Daniel. Newly-discovered Fourth-of-July oration by the illustrious orator and statesman, Daniel Webster; delivered at Fryeburg, Me., in the year 1802, and now for the first time given to the public. Bost., A. F. & C. W. Lewis, 1882. 16 p. il. O. pap., 50 c.; without il., 25 c.

Wheeler, Mrs. S. P. Louise de Bruneval: a romance from the French. N. Y., J. S. Ogilvie & Co., 1882. 58 p. Q. (People's lib., no. 288.) pap., 20 c.

Whitefield, Edwin. The homes of our forefathers: being a selection of the oldest and most interesting buildings, historical houses and noted places in Rhode Island and Connecticut, from original drawings made on the spot. 2d ser. Bost., A. Williams & Co., 1882. 8° cl., $6.

Wright, Carroll D. The relation of political economy to the labor question. Bost., A. Williams & Co., 1882. 53 p. S. bds., 60 c.

This essay constituted the first of a course of lectures upon "Phases of the labor question ethically considered," which were delivered before the Lowell Institute in Dec., 1879. It is dedicated to "sober, industrious and thrifty workmen, and humane, large-hearted employers."

Wright, C. F: Studies in science and religion. Andover, Warren F. Draper, 1882. 16+390 p. maps and il. D. cl., $1.50.

A companion volume to "The logic of Christian evidences," both books being the outcome of the author's studies in inductive logic. Chapters are entitled: The ground of confidence in inductive reasoning; Darwinism as an illustration of the scientific method; Objections to Darwinism and the rejoinders of its advocates; Concerning the true doctrine of final cause or design in nature; Some analogies between Calvinism and Darwinism; An essay on prehistoric man; Relation of the Bible to science.

Yonge, Charlotte M. Unknown to history: a story of the captivity of Mary of Scotland. N. Y., G. Munro, 1882. 74 p. Q. (Seaside lib., no. 1311.) pap., 20 c.

"In 'Unknown to history,' Miss Yonge has told, with her customary art, that romantic story of Cicely Talbot, Bride Hepburn of Scotland, daughter of Mary Stuart, to which few grave chroniclers of the past have referred, but which is one of the most beautiful traditions clustering about the career of the ill-fated queen. The author has given us a brilliant picture of the times, and effective sketches of noted characters in striking situations. Her portrayal of Elizabeth is particularly fine, while the captivity of Mary is described in a way that loses nothing by the strong sympathy with her misfortunes which Miss Yonge does not attempt to repress."—Boston Traveller.

The Publishers' Weekly.

JULY 1, 1882.

PUBLISHERS are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, to insure correctness in the final entry.

The trade are invited to send "Communications" to the editor on any topic of interest to the trade, and as to which an interchange of opinion is desirable. Also, matter for "Notes and Queries," gratefully received.

In case of business changes, notification or card should be immediately sent to this office for entry under "Business Notes." New catalogues issued will also be mentioned when forwarded.

THE LEIPSIK INTERNATIONAL EXHIBITION.

WE learn with much regret of the abandonment of the proposed International Exhibition of the Graphic Arts and of Book Manufactures, to which extended reference was made in the WEEKLY of March 25. The plan included a very full display of work in the various departments of book-making, and the exhibition was to have been held at Leipsic during this summer. But the information just at hand is to the effect that for the present, at least, this interesting and practically instructive exhibition has been given up.

FACT IN FICTION.

THE following paragraph from "Guerndale" (just published by the Scribners) may serve as an editorial in many a trade journal:

"Modern trade is simply low competition; vying with Chinese in petty shifts, and Jews in meanness, and Yankees in 'financial irregularities.' If you are sharp and unscrupulous, and popular with vulgar acquaintances, and don't mind lying a good deal, you will get along—perhaps. But you must practice taking advantage of your neighbor; soliciting favors from men you despise; accompanying your Jew correspondents and country customers on low tours of city dissipation. And you must make yourself used to crooked ways of attaining your ends; if you wish your customer to buy one piece of goods, you must make him think you wish to sell him another. Even then, the squarely dishonest man, your competitor, buying on credit, making pretence without capital, who can content himself with a shaving of profit, and does not mean to pay if things go wrong, has an immense advantage over you. Worst of all, you must suit yourself, just as you suit your goods, to the taste of commercial travellers and drummers; you must tell their stories, and sing their songs—songs like that one Hackett used to sing in college; and if you wish to retain any part of your gentle self, you must change your manners, tastes, views of life, character, every time you change your coat for dinner, and keep your social life in the evening totally distinct from your business life in the day. That this is impossible, American society is beginning to show."

MAUNDERINGS OF AN OLD COUNTRY BOOKSELLER.

March, 1882.

To the Editor of The [London] Bookseller.

SIR: I am old enough to remember when nobody ever thought of asking for large discounts from the published price of books. Nobody—the public at large, that is. It was well enough known that clergymen and schoolmasters, large consumers, got twopence off the shilling, but, in the main, the full publishing price was paid. In those times it was possible to speculate a little, and to keep a small stock. It was not exactly quite agreeable all round, as I may make evident from a fact which actually occurred in the experience of "my father before me," who one day found out that some of his neighbors—the coterie including a soi-disant clergyman—had sent an order in his name to a wholesale agent in order to secure some books for themselves with the threepence a shilling off. Before the big assault on the retail bookselling trade, also, I recollect that lads who were apprentices or assistants with booksellers supplied their relatives and friends with books, as an obligation, at cost price, and their circle of friends spread, of course. I need not narrate the history of the general introduction of the twopence a shilling discount. This was attempted to be stemmed by a 10 per cent, for cash only, but it was "no go." Everybody knows how it came to a threepence a shilling discount, and the obliteration of retail bookselling in its old form. The trade has come into a most anomalous position. Bookselling proper is, I may say, abolished. A few people in the big towns act as a sort of brokers, and supply books on from 5 to 10 per cent commissions. Book-brokers is the title they should take. There is nothing wrong with this, and I am not complaining of it. I was more than once annoyed, and sometime at the beginning of the inroads on the business, with some of my customers. Here was a 4s. 6d. book which I had speculated in for a few copies; months and years passed, and some still in hand. It was a bonâ fide speculation on my part, bought on as good terms as could be had. "I will give you 3s. 9d. for it," my would-be customer said. I told him that I sold books for a living, and not for amusement, and would not sell. I found out afterward that I was wrong; that I should have sold and been done with all such business, or miserable attempt at it. Another of my customers told me that in a large town near he can get all his books at twopence a shilling off, and that, as I have much less rent to pay I should be able at least to do the same. Of course, he did not know that a law bookseller in a large town could buy on better terms than I could, ordering a single book. He did not know that I was on so unequal terms with the man in the big town, that the difference of rent, not to speak of carriage (or agency)—that the matter of rent was not in the question. Threepence a shilling is now the rule off published prices. I was amused the other day by a friend of mine, whom I supply with many things, looking at some dictionaries—he saw Collins' 10s. 6d. one. "I bought a copy of that," he told me, "in Blanktown, at 7s. 6d.," and he could buy as many as he liked at the same. Lately he came to me with a demand for the English Encyclopædia at the reduced price of £13 13s. "Well," I said, "I will supply it"—I very fortunately said, as it turned out, —"at 5 per cent on the cost, or invoice price," I getting through So-and-So, wholesale agents. He expected to have got it for about £9 14s. It turned out that the publishers had reduced the publishing price, but had also reduced the book-selling allowance. The book cost me £12, and my customer had to pay me £12 12s. After all, it was quite a reasonable brokerage, but it was not bookselling. I did not wish to be hard with him, and I stood the carriage off the 12s. The publishers of this work have made a move in the right direction. Why should the publishers of the Encyclopædia Britannica advertise their book at 30s. a volume, when anybody in Edinburgh and Glasgow can get it for 21s. or 22s.? There may be reason enough for this, however, and I am not prepared to say they are wrong in so doing. There are greater iniquities of confusing ways of conducting a business than this. The book-selling trade is revolutionized, but the publishers seem to ignore the change. They have proceeded with their business as if their object had been the extinguishment of at least country booksellers, or of, indeed, small booksellers anywhere. Occasionally, I have a visit from a traveller of some big London publisher. Great bargains are offered, judging by the reduction off the selling price, at least. They turn out to be no bargains at all, for if I go to the next large town I find the same books offered in the shop windows for the same price, or the merest fraction above it, that they were offered to me: Two Shilling books for Fifteenpence. The odd copy of thirteen is likely what they are there sold on! My neighbor the grocer sells butter on a penny a pound, but, then, it is a sure sale. My venture of 15s. for thirteen books is not at all the same thing, and I have been seeking to be done with it. I think it would have paid me to have sold off my whole stock of books years ago, as I actually sold a hundredweight and a half of superseded school-books the other day for 6s. a hundredweight, and gone in for some other sort of goods. I find there are some people reasonable enough not to ask reductions on small things. Monthly periodicals I can yet get full price for, although in big towns, Good Words and other Sixpennies can be had for 4½d. Even the new set out of the publishing trade—the Sixpenny Editions—are to be had in large towns at the same reduced price. I don't attempt to follow, but sell what I can at the full, and it is not many, nor would I, I believe, sell many more at the reduced price. It seems to me, then, that the proper thing at the present stage of development or evolution, is to abolish the trade of bookseller, in so far as new books are concerned. The dealer in new books now is not a bookseller in the old sense at all, but should call himself a book-broker, furnishing on commission. The publisher might as well advertise his price, post or carriage paid. If it were worth anybody's while to take orders for a number, and save a profit out of the carriage, it would be quite as profitable a business as the present style of it, and at least as honorable. To complicate matters, publishers often sell big lots of books to dealers at a price far below any regular list of trade allowances, and people who know where to go can buy them cheaper than any ordinary retail bookseller. Some of these dealers are called "Number Men"—whether they make the books down into bits and hawk them so, I don't know. The publishers go on all the while selling, or professing to sell, at the original price, and with only the ordinary allowance to the trade. This may be quite right, but it should be thoroughly understood by retail booksellers, so that they may get only what they get orders for. Of course, if a publisher has a large stock of a book, and if it is not moving off in the regular course, he has a perfect right to sell as many copies as he likes, at any price he likes, or as he can get for them. He has a perfect right, as well, to continue to sell the remainder at the old price, if people are willing to give it. The retail booksellers may think it dishonorable, and certainly it would be so if the publisher came pushing them on to him; but, of course, this is not done, and the retail bookseller who orders on chance has himself to blame. If the publisher sacrifices his price on a lot to get some money out of a bad business, he is bound to protect the venturer by keeping up the nominal price and not underselling the obliging speculator, for a while at least. I am afraid there is no cure for this style of thing. Perhaps a trial might be made by some of the large publishers of making a uniform deduction of, say, 10 per cent from the published price, with no odd books, and no credit—cash with order. This would be no impediment to the public getting the books, as the publisher could afford to post the books off the 10 per cent to anyone who could not find a broker or soi-disant bookseller. Mr. Ruskin, I believe, has only one broker or bookseller, and yet his books—some of them at least—I have seen offered by one bookseller in a large town, at an advance upon Mr. Ruskin's bookseller's price. The public can get them in no other way than through Mr. Ruskin's broker, with postage, I presume, in addition; so the few that buy them, rather pay an additional sum to the bookseller than put themselves to the trouble of writing. Mr. Ruskin is not a pushing man, and fortunately for his publishing, does not require to be, but still there are many writers whose books would sell as surely if published in the same way, and still better, perhaps, if my modification of this were adopted. A man came into my shop one day and asked for a newly-published pamphlet. His ideas of literature were somewhat primitive. I said I could get it for him. His reply was—"If I were a bookseller, I would have everything that came out." If the trade were modified as I have indicated, we could write ourselves up as "Book Agents," and ask for orders with a good grace, and not stand rebuked for want of enterprise, as I was in this case. This 10 per cent scheme I would intend only for the heavier order of books. Those of a lighter order might be dealt with in a more liberal way, especially those which might almost be classed as "fancy goods." For these, I am afraid, no hard and fast lines could be laid down, as every publisher would adopt the arrangement he thought best for himself. The publishers of the Revised Version of the New Testament missed a fine chance of inaugurating something like a rational system of selling their wares. Had they adopted the 10 per cent system, the published price would have been got everywhere; as it is, they took the old plan, with the consequence of landing the more confiding or sanguine of booksellers in overstock they cannot sell, even at threepence a shilling discount. I might maundle on in this way long enough, but I dare say both you and your readers will be tired of me by this time.

I am, etc.,

AN OLD BOOKSELLER.

CUES TO TIMELY TOPICS.

From the Literary News and the Library Journal.

ORNITHOLOGY.—Coues' "Check List of North American Birds" contains a catalogue of all the ornithological publications of the author, 1861-1881.

METHODIST HISTORY.—A "Contribution to the Bibliography of Methodist History," by S. W. Williams, will be found in the Northwestern Christian Advocate, May 31.

VICTOR HUGO.—The Literary World, June 3, publishes a bibliography raisonné of the principal writings of Victor Hugo, compiled chiefly from Barbou's "Victor Hugo et son temps."

PHILOLOGY.—A list of recent American, British, French, and German philological publications is a feature of the American Journal of Philology, edited by Prof. Basil L. Gildersleeve.

LONGFELLOW.—"O. B. Frothingham's admirable article in the June Atlantic has," says the Christian Register, "as a literary analysis and a personal tribute, not been excelled, scarcely equalled, by anything written on this subject." (See also "Cues" in issue of June 3.)

DARWIN.—Nature, May 18, 25, contains a summary review of Darwin's career by several hands, directed by Dr. G. J. Romanes. The first paper is chiefly biographical; the second shows the great naturalist's contributions to geological science and insight. (See also "Cues" in issue of June 3.)

THE ORDER OF THE SCIENCES.—Chas. W. Shields, in his essay on the philosophical classification and organization of human knowledge, just published, under the above title, by the Scribners, claims that his aim has been "to complete the classifications and schemes, and to advance beyond them to still remaining higher problems."

EMERSON.—Mr. Edwin P. Whipple's study of "Emerson as a Poet," in the July North American Review, is, according to the American, "the most elaborate that has appeared since Mr. Emerson's death." Mr. Whipple is at present engaged upon a chapter of personal reminiscences of the poet which will be published in Harper's Magazine. (See also "Cues" in issue of June 3.)

GOVERNMENT PUBLICATIONS.—The Government Printing Office has just issued a "List of Congressional Documents from the Twentieth to the Fortieth Congresses, inclusive." The "Message from the President of the United States, transmitting a communication from the Secretary of State relative to the establishment of an International Bureau of Exchanges," just issued, contains a "List of Official Publications issued by Congress and the respective Executive Departments from 1867 to 1881." As formerly stated, the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY publishes from time to time lists of the new government publications.

ANTHROPOLOGY AND SOCIOLOGY.—A lucid exposition of what constitutes the science of anthropology has been given by Prof. Otis T. Mason, and the reason of its existence, and the circumstances attending its establishment and recognition in the scientific world, have been explained by Dr. Robert Fletcher in two lectures which form part of "the Saturday Lectures delivered under the auspices of the Anthropological and Philological Societies of Washington," just published by Judd & Detweiler. The volume also comprises "Outlines of Sociology," by Major J. W. Powell. (See also "Cues" in issue of June 3.)

ANONYMS AND PSEUDONYMS.—The most complete work of reference, giving in one alphabet the titles of all British books that have been published anonymously or under pseudonyms, with the names of their authors, is Halkett and Laing's great "Dictionary of Anonymous and Pseudonymous Literature of Great Britain." The catalogue when complete will comprise 20,000 titles, and will extend to three volumes.

ANGLING.—In addition to Lambert's "Angling Literature," mentioned in the issue of May 6, we now have a valuable American contribution by Mr. John Bartlett (so well known by his "Dictionary of Familiar Quotations" and "Shakespeare Phrase-Book"), under the title of "Catalogue of Books on Angling, including Ichthyology, Pisciculture, Fisheries, and Fishing Laws; from the Library of a Practitioner of more than Fifty Years' Experience in the Art of Angling." We also learn that Mr. T. Satchell has printed for private circulation a bibliography of Izaak Walton's "Compleat Angler," extracted from the forthcoming "Bibliotheca Piscatoria," which he is editing in conjunction with Mr. T. Westwood, and which will be published in England.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

LOVERS of yachting will be interested in an illustrated paper on "The Evolution of the American Yacht," by S. G. W. Benjamin, in the July Century. It is said to show the growth of the sailing-vessel, from the Dutch "pink" and the invention of the first schooner by an American in 1713, down to the present time, incidentally touching on points of similarity and contrast between the English and American sailing-vessels. This paper will be followed in the August issue by one on "The American Steam-Yacht." The July Century will also contain an entertaining paper by Colonel George E. Waring, reviewing Stillman's recently published work on "The Horse in Motion," and reproducing many of the photographs taken at the private race-course of Governor Leland Stanford, of California, by Mr. Muybridge, a photographer of San Francisco.

PUCK had a whole sermon last week in its cartoon entitled "The Two Bad Extremes in Juvenile Literature." The figures are three boys surrounded by their favorite books. At one extreme is the reader of the "Young Scalptaker," "Bloody Bub," "Smart Sam," and so forth, who, with cigar in mouth and knife and revolver in belt, seems on desperate deeds intent. At the other extreme is the goody-goody boy, who, takes as his mental pabulum only the equally distorted Sunday-school literature, who is expected to die young, but as often lives to run away with the funds of a bank or distinguish himself in some other equally impulsive manner. Between the two stands the natural, healthy, unwarped and uncorrupted boy, full of life and fondness for boyish sports, who loves Robinson Crusoe and Tom Brown and welcomes with enthusiasm the arrival of such current literature as St. Nicholas and Our Young Folks. There is much for parents to reflect upon in these contrasts, and the golden mean here, as in other relations of life, is the safest course to pursue.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

MR. HALLIWELL-PHILLIPS is about to issue a second edition of his "Outlines of the Life of Shakespeare." It is greatly enlarged, and contains new pieces of information.

MR. ANTHONY TROLLOPE, who has been making a somewhat lengthy sojourn in Ireland, has just returned to London. A new work in connection with Ireland may shortly be expected from his pen.

FOR many years Mr. Edwin W. Streeter has been engaged in collecting materials for something like an authoritative history of the world's famous diamonds. In collaboration with Mr. Joseph Hatton and Mr. A. H. Keane (a well-known Oriental scholar) he has completed a volume entitled "The Great Diamonds of the World."

MR. WILKIE COLLINS is engaged in writing a new serial story, in which the question of vivisection is placed in a new point of view by tracing the effect of the habitual practice of cruelty on human character. The story will be translated into the French, German, Italian, Dutch, and Swedish languages, by special arrangement with the author.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

THE CLAREMONT STATIONERY Co., N. H., have in press "The New Hampshire Poets," a collection of poems by New Hampshire authors.

J. H. VAIL & Co. have in press a volume on "The Morbid Condition of the Urine, dependent upon derangements of digestion," by Dr. C. H. Ralfe.

SCRIBNER & WELFORD have just ready a new and revised edition of Sir G. W. Cox's "Mythology of the Aryan Nation," at about one-third of its former price.

"OUR FAMILIAR SONGS" has been withdrawn from the trade by Henry Holt & Co. It will hereafter be sold by subscription only, and will be controlled by W. D. Cummings, formerly of D. Appleton & Co.

THERE is as much pleasure in searching out and finding a rare old book as in catching a wary trout or hunting timid game. Mr. Lauriat, of Estes & Lauriat, has returned from a ten-weeks' hunt in Europe, and is receiving portions of his game by every weekly steamer to Boston.

THE INTERNATIONAL NEWS Co. has sent us the first part of a new illustrated German edition of Goethe's works, issued in Stuttgart by the Deutsche Verlags-Anstalt, under the editorial supervision of Heinrich Düntzer. It will be completed in eighty-five parts, at 20 cents each.

THE SHARPS PUBLISHING Co., N. Y., will issue at the end of this month "Gems for Children," "The Bright Side of Nature," "Siftings from Nature," "A Nosegay for all Seasons," "Bright Rays for Golden Days," and "Little Sunbeams," six large quartos, fully illustrated, and with bright illuminated covers.

PORTER & COATES have in press "Gleanings from the Fields of Life," poem and illustrations by Florence Bailey, beautifully printed on plate paper, with ornamental initial letters and illustrations lithographed in colors; "Holidays at Home," an illustrated book for boys and girls, by Margaret Vandegrift, author of "Under the Dog Star," "Clover Beach," etc.; "The Deserted Village," with illustrations by Hammatt Billings, small quarto, uniform with "The Bells;" and "Don Gordon's Shooting Box," by Harry Castlemon. They have reduced the price of "Standard Fairy Tales" from $1.25 to $1.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT & Co. have in press a new book on "Colorado," by J. F. Graff, being a series of letters that were published from time to time in the Philadelphia Press, and which attracted a great deal of attention on account of the large amount of important information contained, as well as the vivid description of the beauties of this wonderful country. In a few weeks they will issue a new work on "Quinine," a treatise on the physiological and therapeutic action of the sulphate of quinine, by Otis F. Manson, M.D., Professor of Physiology and Pathology in the Medical College of Virginia.

"THOSE who have been flattering themselves," says the Springfield Republican, that in knowing a certain brilliant young lawyer of this city, who has had a hand in some of the brightest of comparatively recent book-work from the pens of young Harvard men, they know the author of that new and remarkably clever novel, 'Guendale,' are finding themselves mistaken. He protests that he did not write it; and who did he 'cannot tell.' Others who 'guessed' first that a graduate of 1878 or 1879, a Baltimorean well known in certain sets of Boston and Cambridge society, is the author, are holding fast to that guess. It is a pleasant summer pastime, this guessing at the authorship of anonymous new novels. Mr. Niles, of Roberts Bros., set a paying fashion when he started the 'No Name Series.' In no other way could first ventures of unknown writers be better set afloat than this. Now several publishers have adopted the fashion, and 'No Names,' under various titles, are finding their way into the hands of novel-readers who, were their curiosity not excited by the manner of their publication, would probably turn aside from them as not worth attention because written by 'nobody.'"

THE RELIGIOUS TRACT SOCIETY, London, will issue very shortly a popular edition of the "Life of Christ," by the late Dr. Hanna.

K. F. KOEHLER, Leipsic, has just issued two valuable catalogues, the one of theological and philosophical writings, the other on "Orientalia."

SMITH, ELDER & Co. have just issued a new book by a new writer, which is said to be of more than average merit. It is a humorous and fantastic romance entitled "Vice Versâ."

HARTLEBEN, Vienna, has just published an elaborate history of printing from Gutenberg to the present day, with special reference to technical improvements, by Karl Faulmann. The work is illustrated with fourteen plates and more than 300 woodcuts.

CHAPMAN & HALL have in the press a work by Dr. J. Burney Yeo on "Health Resorts and their Uses," being vacation studies in various health resorts; and "Winters Abroad," which is not limited to well-known European resorts, out describes Australia, Sydney, Queensland, the Cape, Egypt, and Algiers, devoting an especial chapter to Davos, by R. H. Otter.

THE death of Garibaldi is calling forth a number of memoirs of the deceased hero. Mr. Bent is bringing out a new edition of his book, in which the text has been modified in several places and the narrative brought down to Garibaldi's death. M. Barbèra, of Florence, will publish a biography, by Giuseppe Guerzoni, in two volumes. The work has been about three years in preparation.

MR. HIRZEL, of Leipzig, has undertaken the publication of a series of notes on the late Prof. Lotze's lectures, taken by his pupils, and edited by Prof. Rehnisch, of Göttingen. He has just brought out the "Elements of Practical Philosophy;" and this will be followed in the course of the present year by other parts containing "Elements of the Philosophy of Religion,"

"Elements of Aesthetics," "History of German Philosophy since Kant," "Elements of Natural Philosophy," "Elements of Logic and Encyclopædia of Philosophy," and "Elements of Metaphysics."

CARL LAUTENSCHLAGER, manager of the "American Public Library" at Stuttgart, Germany, desires to call attention to the fact that donations of books, pamphlets, in fact, of reading matter in any shape on America or American affairs, will be received and delivered free of charge by C. B. Richard & Co., agents of the Hamburg steamship line, 61 Broadway, New York. The object of the library—to familiarize the Germans with the laws, institutions, industry, commerce, politics, literature, etc., of America—is one worthy of encouragement. American tourists travelling in Germany are invited to make use of the facilities afforded by this institution.

WHAT IS PRESBYTERIAN LAW

AS DEFINED BY

The Church Courts?

BY THE

Rev. J. ASPINWALL HODGE, D.D.

SHOWING

The Duties of Church Officers, the Functions of Ecclesiastical Courts, the Laws of the Presbyterian Church, the Proper Processes of Discipline.

It is a digest of the constitutional law of the Church, with all the decisions and interpretations of its highest judicatory. Dr. Hodge has also stated the principal peculiarities of other churches, so that the reader may know how other denominations conduct their affairs.

SEASON 1882-1883.

Christmas and New Year's Cards.

ANNOUNCEMENT.—We beg leave to announce the completion of our line of Christmas and New Year Cards for the season 1882-1883, for which our agents will commence to solicit orders in May. We feel confident that the popularity which our Cards have enjoyed in former seasons will again be secured by the efforts we have made to bring out a line in advance of all our previous productions. The names of the artists who have contributed designs is proof of our continued efforts to reach the highest excellence. We will name only the following: Miss L. B. Humphrey, Miss F. Bridges, Miss Dora Wheeler, Mrs. O. E. Whitney, Miss Rosina Emmet, Miss Florence Taber, Miss L. B. Comins, Thomas Moran, Frederick Dielman, Alfred Fredericks, Alexander Saudier, Harry Beard, Walter Satterlee, R. G. Birch, Theo. Liebler, F. Schuyler Mathews, Geo. J. Barnes, H. P. Kendall.

Due regard has again been paid to the literary matter in connection with the designs, and many of the latter are accompanied by original poems, from writers of note, such as: Mrs. Celia Thaxter and Mrs. Emily Shaw Forman.

Containing a representative list of the novels of the nineteenth century, preceded by suggestive remarks on novels and novel-reading.

The object of this "Reading Diary" is to present survey of all that is considered worth reading in the domain of modern fiction, and thus to make easy a daily record of what has been read, and what to read next, with a view to comparing notes and a mutual exchange of recommendations among congenial friends. It also is to serve as a check-list or guide to the choice of books at the book-store. For this purpose it presents a select list of over one thousand of the best works of modern fiction, with blank facing pages for additions or memoranda.

It is issued in 32mo (160 pages), diary style, suitable for the pocket, and is as neat and attractive in appearance as it is useful in contents and novel in plan. Retail price, paper, 25 cents; cloth, 50 cents; russias, gilt edges, $1. Orders filled by the jobbers.

PUBLICATIONS OF THE SOCIETY FOR POLITICAL EDUCATION.

R. L. DUGDALE, Secretary, 4 Morton Street, N. Y.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS, Publishing Agents, 27 and 29 W. 23d Street, N. Y.

The SOCIETY FOR POLITICAL EDUCATION is organized by citizens who believe that the success of our methods of government depends on the active political influence of educated intelligence, and that parties are means, not ends.

In furtherance of the work it has undertaken, it proposes to issue from time to time, through its authorized publishers, special editions of carefully selected works on subjects connected with political and economic science, and the above is the first series of the publications so issued.

THE LIBRARY OF POLITICAL EDUCATION.

First Series. For 1881.

I. Politics for Young Americans. By CHAS. NORDHOFF. (Including the Constitution of the United States, etc.) 200 pp.

II. History of American Politics. By ALEX. JOHNSTON. 12-274 pp.

III. Introduction to Political Economy. By Prof. A. L. PERRY. 348 pp.

IV. Alphabet of Finance. By GRAHAM MCADAM. 20-210 pp.

Four volumes in box, cloth extra, $3.25.

This edition is sold only in sets, and is not subject to the usual terms to the trade. The price for the regular trade edition of these volumes is $3.85.

Second Series. For 1882.

I. History of Political Economy in Europe. By JEROME ADOLPHE BLANQUI. Translated by Emily J. Leonard with introduction by David A. Wells. 628 pp.

II. Money and the Mechanism of Exchange. By W. STANLEY JEVONS. 402 pp.

III. On Liberty. By JOHN STUART MILL. 204 pp.

Three volumes in box, 8vo, cloth extra, $5.

This edition is sold only in sets, and is not subject to the usual terms to the trade. The price for the regular trade edition is $6.75.

ECONOMIC TRACTS.

Series of 1881.

I. What is a Bank; what services does a bank perform? By EDWARD ATKINSON. 8vo, paper, 10 cents.

II. A Priced and Classified Bibliography of English and American Works on Political Economy and Political and Social Science, recommended for general reading and as an introduction to special study. Prepared by W. G. SUMNER, DAVID A. WELLS, W. E. FOSTER, and G. H. PUTNAM. 8vo, paper, 25 cents.

III. Subjects and Questions pertaining to Political Economy, Constitutional Law, the Theory and Administration of Government, and Current Politics. 8vo, paper, 10 cents.

IV. The Usury Question. Comprising the celebrated essays of John Calvin and Jeremy Bentham, together with a summary of the results of the present Usury Laws of the United States. By BENJ. H. BRISTOW. 8vo, paper, 25 cents.

Series of 1882 in preparation.

Active Members of the Society, paying 50 cents per year, receive the "ECONOMIC TRACTS" free of charge.
